ADULT EDUCATION THROUGH WORLD COLLABORATION

edited by Beverly Benner Cassara
Orig. Ed. 1995
ISBN 0-89464-828-4

288 pp.

$34.50

Over the last few decades hundreds of multinational agencies have offered financial and technical resources for adult education in developing countries. This is the first book to compile and organize vital information about the wide range of programs, methods, needs, and sources worldwide, emphasizing working within the values and interests of existing cultures and encouraging participatory decision making. Promoting an ideal collaboration, wherein donor agencies, educators, and indigenous people work and learn together, the book will provide important information for donor agencies and educators — including students in adult education graduate programs whose careers will inevitably involve international concerns.
